

Hidden Truths

A Secret Identity Romance Collection

Hidden Truths is an emotionally charged romance collection where undercover billionaires, secret protectors, and men in disguise collide with strong, fearless women in stories of temptation, betrayal, redemption, and love that refuses to be hidden.

After the Storm – She came to paradise to escape her life... not to question everything she thought she wanted. Rachel is supposed to be planning her wedding—not dancing barefoot under island stars, not losing herself in music, and definitely not doubting the man waiting for her back in London. But distance changes things. Silence reveals truth. And the more time she spends on the island, the more she begins to realise... maybe the life she's built isn't the one she wants. Then she meets him. Darcy Williams is controlled, powerful, and completely out of her world—a man who doesn't believe in distractions... until she becomes one. Their connection is instant. Intense. Impossible to ignore. But Rachel is engaged. And Darcy doesn't play games. What starts as stolen moments and quiet tension quickly becomes something far more dangerous—because the closer they get, the harder it becomes to pretend this is nothing. And when the truth about her relationship begins to unravel... Rachel is forced to choose. The life she promised herself. Or the man who makes her feel alive. Because sometimes... it takes a storm to show you where you truly belong.

Reckless Hearts – She's the girl he was never supposed to want. He's the man watching her... for all the wrong reasons. Scarlett Hale has spent years suffocating under grief, expectation, and a life that was never truly hers. So, when she escapes to Europe—no rules, no obligations—she's determined to finally breathe again. To live recklessly. To feel something real. She didn't plan on being watched. Brad Allen built his life on control. Former military. Elite security specialist. The man powerful people call when things go wrong. He doesn't do emotions. Doesn't do attachments. And he definitely doesn't blur professional lines. But when he's hired to secretly protect Scarlett, everything changes. Up close, she's not the reckless heiress he expected. She's vibrant. Guarded. Stronger than she should have had to be. And far too easy to fall for. As days in sun-drenched Rome turn into stolen moments, lingering touches, and something dangerously real, Brad finds himself crossing lines he swore he never would. Because Scarlett doesn't know the truth. She doesn't know he was sent to watch her. And she definitely doesn't know he's already lied to her. But secrets have a way of unravelling. And when they do, Brad will have to choose—the mission he was sent on... or the woman he was never meant to love.

Undercover Billionaire – He came to Australia to prove a woman could love him without his billions. He never expected to fall for the one woman who could destroy everything. After discovering her fiancé cheating on her, Harper Jameson has sworn off love. The humiliation still burns, and working in the same company as her ex is a daily reminder that trust is a luxury she can no longer afford. The last thing she wants is another charming man turning her world upside down. Then Alexander Dawson arrives. The handsome British systems engineer is funny, intelligent, and frustratingly impossible to ignore. Unlike every other man Harper has met, Alex seems genuinely interested in her—not her appearance, not what she can do for him, but her. Slowly, despite every promise she's made to herself, Harper finds her carefully built walls beginning to crack. What Harper doesn't know is that Alex Dawson isn't who he claims to be. He's one of the richest men in England. Living undercover inside his own company, Alex is determined to prove that someone can love him for who he is rather than the fortune attached to his name. Falling for Harper was never part of the plan. Neither was lying to the one woman who makes him want to be a better man. But secrets always come at a price. And when the truth about Alex's identity and the real reason he's in Australia is finally revealed, Harper will have to decide whether their love was built on a lie... or whether the man she fell for was real all along.
