

The Memory of Betrayal

by Alison Reid

She thought she had the perfect marriage.

Zoey Holloway loves her husband, Leon. After three years of marriage, they're finally ready to start the family they've dreamed of. Their life together is everything she ever wanted. Until one devastating discovery destroys it all.

Leon has betrayed her.

And the man who knows the truth is the one man Zoey never imagined could become her greatest source of comfort. Logan Sterling is Leon's best friend—and a billionaire who has secretly loved Zoey for four years. He has never acted on his feelings. Never crossed the line. Because Zoey was happy, and Logan would rather spend a lifetime loving her from a distance than destroy his best friend's marriage.

But when Leon's betrayal leaves Zoey shattered, Logan can no longer stand by and watch the woman he loves suffer.

Then tragedy strikes. A terrible accident leaves Zoey with no memory of the months surrounding her husband's betrayal.

She remembers loving Leon. She remembers their marriage.

But when she looks at him now, something inside her tells her she isn't safe. And when she is with Logan, she feels something she cannot explain.

Safe.

Understood.

At peace.

Logan knows the truth about what happened. He knows what Zoey has forgotten. And despite loving her more than he has ever loved anyone, he refuses to take advantage of her confusion.

Because if Zoey is ever going to love him, he needs it to be because she chooses him—not because she has forgotten the man she once loved.

But as Zoey slowly rebuilds her life, her heart begins to remember something her mind cannot. And Logan is faced with the hardest choice of his life:

Keep protecting the woman he loves from the truth... or risk losing her forever by telling her everything.

Sometimes the heart remembers what the mind cannot.

And sometimes the greatest love story begins with the deepest betrayal.
